SC Ag Council to Focus on Peaches

The quarterly meeting of the South Carolina Ag Council is scheduled to be held on Thursday, May 14, 2009 at the SC Farm Bureau Office, 724 Knox Abbot Drive, Cayce, SC. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. and the program at 10:00 a.m. followed by a catered lunch.

The meeting topic will be "SC's Tastier Peaches." Speakers and topics will include: Chalmers Carr, Titan Farms - "Peach Production;" Dr. Desmond Layne, State Peach Specialist, Extension Fruit Tree Specialist, and Associate Professor of Pomology, Clemson University - "Partnering with the SC Peach Industry to Solve Problems and Expand Opportunities;" Amy London, Executive Director of the SC Peach Council - "Mission of the South Carolina Peach Council;" and Ansley Rast, Marketing Specialist, SC Department of Agriculture - "Certified SC and the Palmettovore."

After the presentations, the Honorable Danny Verdin, Chairman of the South Carolina Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee, will present the Farm/City Week awards.

Following the meeting and awards presentation, lunch will be served. Members and guests are invited to bring a peach-based dessert to enter into the SCAC Peach Contest. Meeting participants will have an opportunity to taste the contest entries.

Friends and guests are welcomed and encouraged. Anyone who has an interest in SC agriculture does not want to miss this 'peachy' meeting.

Deadline for advanced reservations of $8 for Ag Council members and their invited guests is Friday, May 8. Registration at the door and for non-members is $12 per person. The registration fee includes the catered lunch and peach tasting. To pre-register or for more information call, Steve Slice, 803-806-3843, or e-mail Steve.Slice@sc.usda.gov.

New building dedicated at Pee Dee Farmers Market

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture dedicated its newest building at the Pee Dee State Farmers Market to Senator Hugh K. Leatherman on Friday, April 17.

"At $34 billion a year, agribusiness is South Carolina's number one economic driver," said Commissioner Weathers. "With 400,000 visitors and millions of dollars in sales annually, the Pee Dee State Farmers Market brings much-needed revenue to this community."

The ribbon cutting and building dedication came during the 25th Annual Southern Plant and Flower Festival. The Plant and Flower Festival is the market's signature springtime event welcoming more than 38,000 guests and 100 vendors to the market this year.

A primer on Agri-BEES-ness!

There's a lot of buzz today about healthy eating, the availability of locally grown fruits and vegetables - and bees.

The honey bee is one of the most important and misunderstood farm workers in the world. Primarily responsible for pollinating almost one third of the food crops we eat, this tiny little worker has had to fight for survival. For a while I thought Hollywood had produced a movie to acknowledge their plight. Turns out, The Secret Life of Bees, which came out in 2008, is not about bees.

Several types of mites and beetles, and now the mysterious colony collapse disorder that results in death of previously healthy colonies, have plagued the honey bee population. In the past 60 years, the number of managed honey bee colonies in the United States has declined from about 5.5 million colonies to less than 2.4 million colonies today.

Bees help farmers make money. The total annual cash receipts from commercial agricultural crops in South Carolina which are highly dependent on honey bees for pollination is estimated by Dr. Mike Hood, State Apiculturist, to be about $25 million. Some of these commercially grown crops include apples, cantaloupes, cucumbers, blueberries, squash, and watermelons.

They also help out around the house, or more specifically, the garden - pollinating home garden fruits and vegetables which are estimated to be valued at four times the value of commercially grown crops in the state.

Wells Appointed USDA-NASS Field Office Director

Hugh Weathers, Commissioner of Agriculture, welcomes Eddie Wells to South Carolina. Wells was recently appointed Director of USDA-National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) South Carolina Field Office.

Commissioner Weathers said, “We are proud to have Eddie back home here in South Carolina. He has the experience on-and-off the farm, educational background, and the ability to work with people that is essential to lead the NASS-SC Office.

Growers and producers, public officials, and others involved in South Carolina agribusiness depend on accurate and up-to-date surveys and reports to make informed decisions. I am confident that Eddie will provide the leadership needed here in South Carolina.”

Eddie Wells was born in Abbeville, SC and grew up in both South and North Carolina. He worked on the farm growing a variety of fruits and vegetables as well as caring for a small cow/calf operation. After he received his B.S. degree in Agricultural Economics from North Carolina State University, he began his career with NASS in the Virginia Field Office. There he gained much of the basic experience that helped develop the foundation for his career. After three years of experience with NASS in the Virginia Office, he returned to eastern North Carolina to operate a diversified farm producing flue-cured tobacco, traditional field crops, and hogs. After a five-year tenure in the Kentucky Field Office working in the survey and estimation programs, he transferred into NASS Headquarters where he designed and implemented many of the national training programs for the agency.

In early 1998, Eddie transferred to the Kansas Field Office as the Deputy Director. He has been in this position until his present appointment as the South Carolina Field Office Director.

NASS performs surveys and prepares reports to cover virtually all aspects of production and supplies of food and fiber, prices paid and received by farmers, farm labor and wages, farm finances, chemical use, and changes in the demographics of producers to name a few examples. NASS is committed to providing timely, accurate, and useful statistics in service to agriculture.

For more information about Eddie Wells or the USDA-NASS Field, call 803-765-5333.

Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program

The Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program (FRPP), administered by the USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), is accepting applications for funding. SC NRCS State Conservationist Niles Glasgow noted that the 2008 Farm Bill provided for a continuous signup to allow entities more opportunities to submit eligible parcels. SC NRCS will accept applications through May 15, 2009.

Only eligible entities may submit applications. Eligible entities are State, Tribal, and local governments and non-government organizations that meet specific requirements. The entities must have an established farm and ranch land protection program, have the authority to hold and manage easements, have the capacity to acquire, manage, and enforce the easements, and the funds to match the Federal contribution.

The FRPP can provide up to fifty percent of the appraised fair market value of the easement on the farm or ranch. At least fifty percent of the appraised fair market value of the easement must be provided by the eligible entity. Landowners may accept less than the appraised fair market value of the easement. The difference between the appraised value and the purchase price the landowners are willing to accept is considered a landowner donation. The eligible entity must provide at least twenty-five percent of the purchase price in cash. Parcels selected for funding must also include an appraisal, survey, title search, preparation of conservation easement deed, and payment for the closing.

Land proposed for FRPP must meet one of two eligibility categories. This includes land that has at least fifty percent prime and unique farmland soils, and soils of Statewide and local importance; or contain historic or archeological resources.

Private landowners should work with sponsoring entities to submit their applications. Eligible entities should submit completed applications to the NRCS field office in their county by the May 15, 2009, deadline.

For more information, and to download the application and other forms, visit www.sc.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/frpp2009.html.

“Farming 101” - Small Scale Back Yard Agriculture for Everyone

Farming 101 is a series of courses covering several different aspects of small scale or backyard agriculture that can work for everyone. The sessions will begin May 19 and end June 9. Each session will begin at 7:00 p.m. and run for 2 to 2 ½ hours at the Anderson County Cooperative Extension Office, 313 S. Towers Street, Anderson, SC.

The series of courses will cover the basics of home gardening, growing small fruits, how to properly and safely preserve the foods you grow, how to maintain a backyard flock of chickens for egg production or meat, how to incorporate livestock in the form of goats, sheep, beef cattle, and swine on small acreage, and how to maintain your lawn and landscape plants as well as setting up irrigation for your home.

Registration is $20 per person or $30 per couple per session. Participants may sign up for as many sessions as they choose. Each session will require at least 10 students to pre-register in order to conduct the educational program.

May 19 Home Gardening – Cory Tanner, Consumer Horticulture Agent Greenville County. “How to start and manage a home garden”

May 26 Small Fruits – Howard Hiller, Extension Agent Oconee County. “How to grow small fruits and how to manage small fruits already growing around the home”

May 28 Food Preservation – Rhonda Matthews, Extension Food and Nutrition Agent Abbeville County. “How to properly and safely can, freeze, and preserve homegrown fruits and vegetables”

June 2 Meat Animals on Small Acreage – Chris Talley, Livestock Extension Agent Anderson County. “Sheep, goat, beef cattle, and swine production on small acreage”

June 4 Backyard Flock – Dr. Mickey Hall, Associate Professor Poultry Science Clemson University. “How to start a backyard flock of chickens for egg production”

June 9 Home Lawn Maintenance and Irrigation – Marty Watt, Extension Agent Anderson County. “How to maintain a healthy and beautifully landscaped lawn” and Bryan Smith, Extension Agent Laurens County. “Irrigation systems for the home use”

For more information, call Chris Talley at the Anderson County Cooperative Extension Office at 864-226-1581 or email talley2@clemson.edu.

ACRE Program Enrollment Begins

Perry Thompson, Acting Executive Director of USDA’s Farm Service Agency in South Carolina, announced that starting now producers can elect and enroll in the Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE) program. ACRE is a provision of the 2008 Farm Bill.

"The Average Crop Revenue Election program is an innovative alternative to the traditional farm safety," Thompson said. "This new option presents an opportunity for producers to review both programs and decide which one will work best for their operation."

Producers have until August 14, 2009, to make their decision for the 2009 crop. USDA will not accept any late-filed applications.

Producers who elect the ACRE program for a farm agree to:

- forego counter-cyclical payments;
- accept a 20-percent reduction of the direct payments; and
- accept a 30-percent reduction in loan rates for all commodities produced on the farm.

Commodities eligible for ACRE payments are wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, upland cotton, long grain rice, medium and short grain rice, peanuts, soybeans, sunflower seed, canola, flaxseed, safflower, mustard seed, rapeseed, sesame seed, crambe, dry peas, lentils, small chickpeas and large chickpeas.

The ACRE program was created in the 2008 Farm Bill to give producers an option in lieu of traditional counter-cyclical payments. Producers may elect and enroll in ACRE for the 2009 crop year even if they have already accepted advance direct payments under the Direct and Counter-cyclical Program.

To elect ACRE for a farm, producers must complete Form CCC-509 ACRE, which irrevocably elects ACRE for the farm through crop year 2012. Form CCC-509, the contract to participate in ACRE, must then be completed each year the producer intends to participate and receive benefits.

For more information about the ACRE program please visit your local Farm Service Agency (FSA) county office or visit <http://www.fsa.usda.gov>.

Agri-BEES-ness

That equates to a value of about $100 million in South Carolina. They help the hunters also. The honey bee is invaluable for pollinating wildlife food plants.

Dr. Hood estimates that South Carolina has around 6,000 honey bee colonies in the state managed by 8-10 commercial beekeepers who make their living from honey production or pollinating crops grown in South Carolina. He added, "Some of these commercial beekeepers also move their bees to other parts of the nation to pollinate crops such as almonds in California and cranberries in Maine."

The rest of the 2,000 South Carolina beekeepers are either sideliners or hobbyists. About 40 of those are sideline beekeepers, people who strive to make a profit from keeping bees but rely on another source of income. These beekeepers manage 50-200 colonies to supplement their income. The rest of the 2,000 non-commercial beekeepers are part-time or hobbyists who keep a few bee colonies for pollinating their gardens or for honey production. The sideliners and part-time beekeepers manage about 25,000 colonies. In addition to the value of the honey bee pollination, about $1.25 million in honey is produced annually in the state.

While the honey bee is not in danger of extinction, keeping enough healthy colonies to ensure continued availability of fruits and vegetables in South Carolina is becoming more and more difficult. USDA scientists are working on bees that can resist mites. One initiative sets up for the workers bees in a colony to spot the problem bees and 'bee' done with them. I guess run them out of town. The other work is to adapt a Russian bee to our climate that has natural resistance. With some progress on these efforts, maybe there will be a sequel to the 2008 movie that will be about bees.

Our Certified SC Grown program depends on the honey bee's hard work for a good supply of wholesome, nutritious locally grown produce. But, the honey bee - one of the hardest working allies of farmers - is under attack not only from predators and disease, but also from humans.

While honey bees are some of the most fascinating creatures to observe, not many people can recognize a honeybee from a wasp. They hear the buzz and that's enough for them to get out the bug spray! To help protect and promote bee populations in your area, plant a lot of different native flowers that attract bees, provide food for them and other beneficial insects. If you find a swarm at your home or workplace, call a beekeeper. Do not call your Commissioner of Agriculture.

The South Carolina Beekeepers Association and Clemson University have established a "Save Our Bees" campaign. Funds collected from the campaign will be used to support honey bee research investigating problems facing South Carolina beekeepers. The campaign was begun last fall and the association has received about $4,000 from gifts or memorials.

If you would like more information about apiculture, South Carolina's agri-bees-ness industry, or to participate in this worthwhile effort to support the biggest little farm worker in South Carolina, contact Dr. Mike Hood, 864-656-0346, or visit the SC Beekeepers Association web site at www.scstatebeekeepers.org.

Annual Barbeque Cook-off held at State Fairgrounds

If you are looking to eat some barbeque and support a worthy cause, then stop by the State Fairgrounds in Columbia for the 22nd annual barbeque cook off to support the Carolina Children's Home.

This annual event will be Friday, May 15 from 7-10 p.m. and Saturday, May 16 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the State Fairgrounds. Visitors are asked to enter the Fairgrounds through Gate 11.

Tickets to this annual event are $10 per person, and it is open to the public. Stop by to sample barbeque from any of the more than 40 teams competing in this year's event. Teams come from all across South Carolina and from Tennessee and Georgia just to compete. All the proceeds benefit the Carolina Children's Home. In 2008 this event raised more than $68,000 for the Carolina Children's Home.

Tickets can be purchased at the Carolina Children's Home in Columbia at the administration office on Felix Road or call the Home at 803-782-1421. Tickets can be purchased the day of the event at the Fairgrounds at Gate 11.

USDA Request for Soybean Referendum

The USDA will offer soybean producers the opportunity to request a referendum on the Soybean Promotion and Research Order (Order), as authorized under the Soybean Promotion, Research, and Consumer Information Act (Act).

The Request for Referendum will be conducted at county Farm Service Agency offices. To be eligible to participate, producers must certify and provide documentation that shows that they produced soybeans and paid an assessment on the soybeans during the period of January 1, 2007, through December 31, 2008.

Beginning May 4, 2009 through May 29, 2009, producers may obtain a request form by mail, fax, or in person from the Farm Service Agency county offices. Forms may also be obtained via the <http://www.ams.usda.gov/lsmarketingprograms> during the same time period.

The deadline for returning the referendum request form is May 29, 2009. USDA will conduct a referendum if at least 10 percent of the nation's 589,182 soybean producers support a referendum. Not more than one-fifth of the producers who support having a referendum can be from any one state. For more information, contact the Marketing Programs Branch; Livestock and Seed Program, AMS, USDA; STOP 0251 - Room 2628-S; 1400 Independence Avenue, SW; Washington, D.C. 20250-0251.

Dedication

"People love the Pee Dee Market," said Tommy Coleman, with the Ag Commission of South Carolina. "This building will be a great asset for farmers and vendors."

Coleman thanked Senator Leatherman for his support of South Carolina agriculture through the years. Following the dedication ceremony guests toured the new facility and the Southern Plant and Flower Festival.

The market opened in June of 1983 at the "Old Tobacco Experiment Station" location on Highway 52 in Florence. The 55 acres of land on which the market now rests was originally used for production farming. The building houses numerous retailers at the market.

The market is open year round as are the other two State Farmers Markets in Columbia and Greenville. Hours for the Pee Dee Market are Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

South Carolina launches Market Maker - from land and sea - the freshest products in South Carolina are just a click away

The Palmetto State's freshest seafood and agricultural products are just a mouse click away through an interactive tool now available in South Carolina.

S.C. Market Maker is an online resource that puts the state's agricultural products and fresh-from-the-boat seafood in the hands of consumers.

Bringing Market Maker to South Carolina is a cooperative effort between Clemson University Public Service Activities, S.C. Department of Agriculture, S.C. Sea Grant Consortium and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service.

From a farmer looking for a place to sell fresh-grown baby greens to a grocery store manager who wants to stock his coolers with locally caught shrimp, Market Maker's online interactive mapping system can locate businesses and products across the Palmetto State.

The innovative tool provides an important link for producers and consumers, said R. David Lamie, Extension specialist at the Clemson Institute for Economic and Community Development, who is leading the project in South Carolina.

Details can be summarized on a map to show concentrations of consumer markets and strategic business partners. Providing the information in a map-based format, in addition to lists and tables, makes for a more effective and user-friendly tool, Lamie said.

Census and other data to help producers identify niche markets is also a feature of the site. For example, a producer wanting to sell lamb or goat meat to Hispanic consumers can request a map showing the greatest concentration of upper-income Hispanic households, and then request a complete demographic profile of those locations. Or, a chef who wants to buy wild caught fish for his restaurant can search for local commercial operators in the state.

Market Maker was created in 2004 by the University of Illinois Extension after a group of livestock producers said they wanted to supply quality meats to grocery stores in Chicago. The initiative has grown to contain more than 500,000 farmers and other food-related enterprises in more than a dozen states.

The program connects all elements of the food chain - from farmers and fishermen to processors and distributors - so they can more efficiently conduct business. If a chef only wants to buy local shrimp, Market Maker can help make the connections.

Hugh Weathers, S.C. Commissioner of Agriculture, said that making these connections, particularly between producers and consumers, is vital to the success of Palmetto State agribusiness.

"Market Maker compliments our 'Certified S.C. Grown' marketing and branding program, which encourages consumers to buy South Carolina produce and seafood," Weathers said. "Nothing's fresher. Nothing's finer - Market Maker expands the free resources that are available to food buyers and the general public."

Niles Glasgow, S.C. Natural Resources Conservation Service state conservationist said, "NRCS works with small and limited resource farmers to help them meet specific market niches. Market Maker is a great tool that will expand their opportunities for exposure and profit."

To register a business or search the Market Maker database, visit www.scmarketmaker.com.

Lexington's Old Mill Farmers Market Opens May 21

The first-ever season for Lexington's Old Mill Farmers Market will begin on May 21 at the Old Mill, 711 East Main Street in Lexington, SC. The Market will be open for the spring and summer season from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. every third Thursday, May through September.

The market will feature fresh produce, locally grown or produced foods, locally grown or sustainable plants, and related products. This will be the first South Carolina-focused farmers market in Lexington.

Market Manager is Heidi Black of Bringing You Baskets and Faithful Foods, Inc. in Lexington. Claude Lindler, loyal agriculture supporter, will attend and supervise the markets and provide promotion and publicity.

At the end of each market day, vendors will be invited to contribute unsold goods in any quantity to the Lexington County Meals-On-Wheels program which feeds approximately 700 area senior citizens. This assistance will help replenish the program's frequently depleted food pantry. Contributions are tax deductible.

For more information about Lexington's Old Mill Farmers Market, contact Heidi Black, info@bringingyoubaskets.com, 803-957-3602.
